

Rights, needs or wants that appear to be denied:

Rights, needs or wants that appear to be protected:

A. This 11-year-old girl works with other girls and women in a charcoal production yard in Côte d'Ivoire. These young workers are exposed to dangerous smoke and charcoal fumes throughout the day. She says she does not go to school, but UNICEF, the Government and other partners are working together to get her back in school.

Rights, needs or wants that appear to be denied:

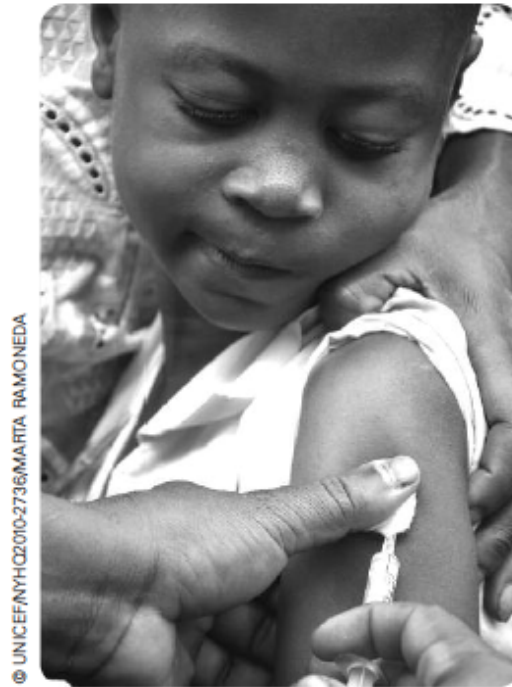

Rights, needs or wants that appear to be protected:

B. A boy washes his face at a UNICEF-supported water source, in a camp for people displaced by the floods in Pakistan in 2010. Millions of people were affected by the floods, and when they returned to their homes they had to deal with high water levels and washed-out roads and bridges.

Rights, needs or wants that appear to be denied:

Rights, needs or wants that appear to be protected:

C. Five-year-old Wonsen Johnson receives a measles vaccination at his school in Liberia. The emergency campaign is led by Liberia's Ministry of Health and supported by UNICEF and the World Health Organization (WHO), and targets children aged 6 months to 15 years – some 230,000 children.

Rights, needs or wants that appear to be denied:

Rights, needs or wants that appear to be protected:

© UNICEF/NYHQ/2011-0180/ADOLPHUS SCOTT

D. This young girl has just received crayons, exercise books, pencils and other school supplies at her first day of classes at a UNICEF tent school in Haiti. These are part of a UNICEF school-in-a box kit, containing teaching and learning materials for 80 students, and were delivered after her original school was destroyed during the 2010 earthquake.