Hi everyone,

Tracy & I had a virtual meeting with Archie and Rusty from Follett to learn about a Destiny add-on that may be a fit for all our schools. On Titlewave, there is a link to a product called Engage, a reading engagement tool that would allow us to create reading challenges and help our students to set and track reading goals.

Go beyond traditional reading lists.

Follett Destiny Discover® Engage, an add-on subscription to Follett Destiny® Library Manager, provides countless benefits for readers in all grades.

Take your students' independent reading journey to the next level and keep them engaged every step of the way. Here's how it works.

Recommendations
Foster an excitement for reading with integrated recommendations, helping your students zero in on their next favorite book.

Programs
Promote large-scale reading initiatives, such as summer reading or One School, One Book events.

Challenges
Students can work toward their reading goals, and encourage fellow students to participate in challenges.

Arrange a Demo

During the demo we learned how students can:

- Track minutes for reading
- Recommend books to friends
- Have books recommended by Destiny for them to read based on an interest survey
- Participate in book clubs
- Participate in challenges

Teachers can:

- Add students to clubs and challenges (secondary - Tracy sees English teachers using this in lit circles plus silent reading)
- This will also let TLs teach colleagues about Destiny, as they can create challenges for their students
- Challenges can be public(entire school) or private (adding students as a class)

If this looks interesting, Archie can schedule more demos.

This would be a great purchase to lobby the district for – it fits with core competencies, literacy, etc.
