Core Word Focus: NOT

Core words are the powerful, flexible words we use every day for most of our communication. A core word approach gives the AAC learner focused practice with these important words that will help them communicate effectively in many different situations for many different reasons. Our next core word focus is not.

Not is an incredibly powerful advocacy word. Kids need to be able to decline something (“that’s not the one I want”), clarify (“that’s not right” or “that’s not what I meant”), and to share their opinion (“I do not like it!” or “not good!”). When kids use these strong words, we need to hear their message and let them know we have understood. It’s ok if it’s necessary to tell them something is not possible to honour—most kids will accept that disappointment if they are confident, they have been heard and understood.

When you are reading books, you will notice that you will often have to expand n’t to not. In reading—and in your everyday communication—expand the contraction to not this week because the emphasis is valuable. When we emphasize a word, we draw attention to it and through our focused emphasis we are giving them all the opportunity to absorb a word’s meaning. Our goal here is to give them access to a word to convey the meaning instead of having to resort to actions to decline, clarify or share their negative opinion about something.
